

SCHOOL OF LAW, CHRIST UNIVERSITY, BANGALORE

INTRODUCTORY PRIMER: GUEST LECTURE ON THE BASICS OF IPR PROTECTION

23rd July 2019

The Intellectual Rights Property Committee, identified that there is a need for the entirety of the student body, right from the 1st year, to have a comprehensive understanding of the fields of Intellectual Property Rights and Tech Law. In pursuance to this, the first event conducted by the Committee was an introductory primer dealing with the changing dimensions of IPR and of various tech laws. Two speakers were invited to the primer. The first speaker was Ms. Anjana Rao, an alumnus of School of Law, Christ (Deemed to be University), who is currently practicing in the field of IPR. She was also the former convenor of the IPRC during her time at School of Law. To begin with, Ms. Rao was very effective in providing a strong theoretical base to the students by explaining to them the concept of IPR and the reason why IPR is accorded. Following this, an overview of different areas of Intellectual Property such as patents, copyrights, trademarks, GI and designs were illustrated with unique examples of landmark cases and recent developments in legislations. This provided the students with an understanding of the practical application of Intellectual Property. Other areas of IP such as semi-conductors and plant varieties were also discussed with the students contributing relevant examples for the same.

Following this, the second speaker was Mr. Divij Joshi, an alumnus of National Law School of India University. He is currently a research fellow at Vidhi Centre for Legal Policy. Mr. Joshi began his lecture by explaining the scope of law and social conduct. Following this, he explained the scope of tech law in India in the context of global markets. Various concepts of 'Code as law', architecture of IP, social constraints were discussed. Sir discussed various potential research questions in tech law such as 'How technology challenges constitutional mandates?' and Smart Contract challenges. Smart contracts were discussed vis-à-vis competition law. The Aadhar judgement was discussed. Certain issues regarding the grey areas of tech law was discussed with the example of Cambridge Analytica Scam which was used to inform political views.

With an interactive session where students received answers from the speakers to their many questions, the introductory primer came to an end. The Intellectual Property Studies Committee, organised an Introductory Primer Workshop on Intellectual Property Laws with the aim of acquainting newly joined first year students to the field of intellectual property and to ignite their interest in the subject.

Starting with a strong theoretical base to the students by explaining to them the concept of IPR, the speakers provided the students with an understanding of the practical application of Intellectual Property and technology laws. With an interactive session where students received answers from the speakers to their many questions, the introductory primer was highly informative and enriching for the students of first year, as well as the other student attendees from various batches of law school.

The first year students attended and enjoyed the session. They actively participated in the discussions and the resource persons keenly indulged them in their imagination and queries. The list of students who attended the programme is as given below.
