A PSYCHOLOGY FEST

Unsub

Description:

Investigative Psychology is the term used for the part of forensic psychology that deals with criminal investigation. An investigative psychologist works with the police in order to solve crimes by understanding the types of crimes and criminals. This includes understanding patterns in crimes, criminal behaviour in relation to past life and personal life dynamics. This event aims to include this side of psychological thinking where one must define patterns in behaviour and situations. It gives students universally (from all courses) a platform to practice their skill of discriminating between patterns of personality: it also enables them to be further trained in this skill through practice. Each team includes 3 participants.

Rounds: Participants have three rounds to work through before winning the game, one round per day. Each Day will also end with an elimination.

Dates: 9th to 11th February

Venue: 2nd Floor Balcony
