

REPORT ON THE CONSTITUTIONAL LAW ORIENTATION - NOVEMBER 2018 (Kengeri Campus)

Object of the event:

The programme intended to familiarize the non-law students of other deaneries of Christ with the basic tenets of the Constitution of India. The Constitution being the law of the land is fundamentally important to every person governed by it and hence it is essential that every individual should be adept with knowledge of Constitution.

Date: 29 November 2018

Venue: Christ University, Kengeri Campus

Audience: Engineering students

Structure:

The programme was structured in a way to make it systematic and easy for the audience to understand the Constitutional text. The major parts of the Constitution were divided among students from School of Law to present on. The presentations were enriched and supported by graphic PowerPoint presentations, with each individual speaker being allotted a timeframe of 8 - 12 minutes to elaborate on the topic. To reduce monotony, each session was concluded with few intriguing quiz questions and a Q&A session with the audience.

Topics presented:

Preamble, Citizenship, Federal Form of Government, Fundamental Rights, Directive Principles of State Policy, Judiciary, Executive, Legislature, Doctrine of Basic Structure, Emergency.

General report:

The Constitutional Law Orientation 2018 was a one-day orientation session on Constitutional law in India, which was conducted by the Constitutional law Studies and Orientation Committee for the Engineering Students of the Kengeri Campus of Christ University. The event consisted of around 300 students and their respective head faculty members. The orientation session was taken by the members of the Committee where each member had explained the fundamentals of the Constitution of India. Quizzes were conducted after every session in order to make sure that the students were grasping the essentials of the Constitution, and their rights and duties which every Indian citizen must be aware about. The right answers during the quizzes were also rewarded accordingly by our Committee's Faculty Co-ordinators. The program was divided into two sessions. The morning session which was from 9:30 am - 12:45 pm and the post lunch session from 1:45 pm – 3:40 pm.
