This online workshop was a part of the induction programme designed for faculty at the Christ University, Pune, Lavasa campus. The workshop was geared towards aiding faculty members to design their course plans. It focussed on orienting faculty to the concept of outcome based education, the need to constructively align curriculum with pedagogy and assessment, and ways in which this is reflected in the course plans. One of the major aspects of the workshop was to discuss assessment strategies that would further align with pedagogy. Faculty were also introduced to Bloom's taxonomy and its role in framing learning outcomes.
