FEEDBACK ANALYSIS REPORT 2024-2025

Action Taken Report

Based on the comprehensive feedback received from students, and faculty, through the course year, as well as on completion, there are a few areas of improvement that have been identified. These insights have been taken into consideration during the BOS meeting and some feedback have been shared with the faculty to enhance in-class teaching-learning experiences. Responsible use of AI and EdTech tools, and inclusive pedagogical practices have been a commitment of the department. Based on previous years' feedback, assessments were diversified beyond conventional examination and in-class assignment techniques. These will continue to be a priority for the faculty in the coming years as well.

We have also attached to this report, the feedback received from Alumni as well as Employers.

FEEDBACK ANALYSIS

Feedback for all courses is collected during the course, as well as upon its completion. Feedback forms through Google Forms are circulated for a more comprehensive data collection and understanding. The feedback from Alumni was sought about 6 months after their graduation, to understand their assessment of the curriculum from an industry perspective. The employers feedback included here is through emails that they have sent regards to our students' work.

Overall feedback:

The overall feedback from both the stakeholders was positive. There were also constructive suggestions and recommendations provided by them. The average indicates that the stakeholders are satisfied with the curriculum.

Areas for improvement:

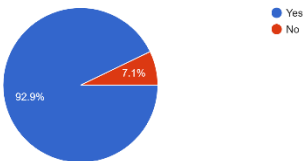

- Syllabus Updation for a few courses
- Practical aspect and industry connect
- Including more case studies

General suggestions from Students (MAIS):

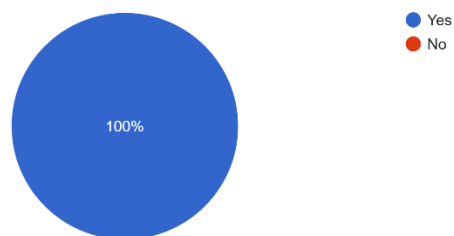

Addition of more contemporary politics with military technology in area studies
International Law should have more classes
Suggesting more diverse reading materials, historical and current such as journal article and recent research
The course was heavily research based, it would be better if other subjects related to risk management, etc was introduced
Add an extra Subject instead of language
Nothing. Just enjoyed studying
More case studies in Political Theory
Europe - course plan need to be updatedChina - too much focus on theory
more focus on post colonial history in African Studies would be beneficial

General suggestions from Students (BA-HEP):

Missed out on some key papers for Indian architecture/erotica/jewellery and also emphasized chapter were post Islamic rulers or pre Islamic rulers and this is crucial give the rise of misinformation my very peers share which falls into propaganda. Maybe it's about to time proly give emphasis on these aspects where education of history be taught as such to be able to differentiate with propaganda or false narratives. A whole paper on misinformation would be much suitable and proly the need of the hour. Ofcourse due to the paucity of hours for each paper would be a challenge but give that the future batches haves 5 years/4 years a more detailed paper on Islamic architecture/Christian architecture although these came years later than compared to temple architecture would just like be factor for people to see that religions were much rather just political side plays and architectural structures, those witnesses. Not sure if these words carry gravity but, I believe the review faculty finds that the whole para maybe a little to extensive or unnecessary. But I hope to leave the essence of it burried somewhere here. Also I hope Dr. Vageshwari S.P still be a member of this panel as proly a visiting professor or anything remotely associated with the department. Ofcourse she'd be already. But the whole statment is yet again a ode to an amazing teacher.
Update the syllabus for Public Administration
All courses are really well made. But one suggestion would be to update Public administration as the course content felt somewhat dry and disconnected from real-world applications, which made it hard to stay engaged.
No improvement needed
For IR, there should be more contemporary world scenarios and and case studies along with current affairs in the course plan
Some theories of Public administration were extremely exhaustive and could not connect with the concepts that were taught. Instead of understanding the concepts, one had to memorise the topics.
Public policy and public administration were less engaging than the other subjects.
All were good subjects
One suggestion would be to include a few real-time projects or assignments. This would provide us with practical exposure, help reinforce key concepts, and support the development of relevant skills through hands-on experience.
More emphasis and additions on Architecture and introduction of basics to archaeology will be a great addition
It was good as a whole
All the courses were perfect and are helping me in my studies now for competitive exams

More interactive learning would make the courses even more interesting for the students.

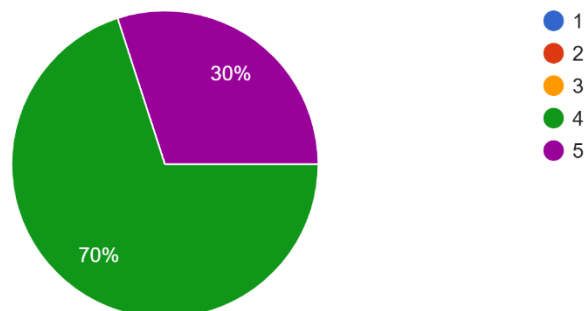

Public administration course should be more practical based with lesser theory and real time examples

General Suggestions from Faculty

Public Administration course is too vast and can include a few policy references to bridge between theory and practice. LAW PIP unit 1 is very long and needs to be shortened or revamped with other units
Since all the courses are still newly introduced, it will take some more time to figure that out
Inculcated contemporary understanding of the domains
Slight changes are needed to make the courses more learner centric.
A few minor changes to the Skill Enhancement courses.
Some changes have recently been carried out. Will revisit after a year.
Changes have been suggested prior to BOS.

More experiential and simulation based learning

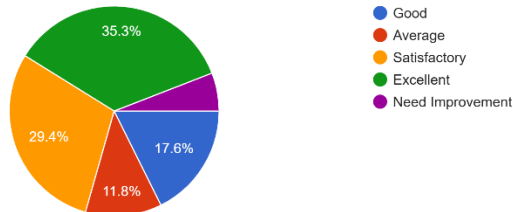

More learner centric modules needed in Law programmes.

General Suggestions from Alumni (MAIS 2024 batch):

We need more practical application based training like debates on solving a international crisis using strategies and conducting MUNSOC within the class for once in a month and so students would get more understanding of how actually this field works out in the real world and they can actually get trained for that.

Can include geopolitical risk analysis as a subject

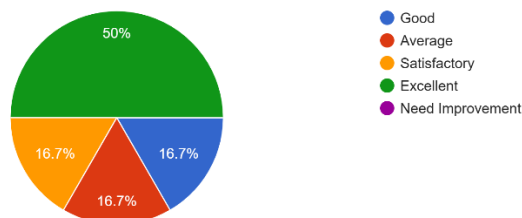

More of a knowledge oriented subject than a career oriented one.

1. A few subjects like Research methodology, Comparative Politics and Conflict and Peace Studies need to be very detailed discussion and case study oriented. Despite, all we did was study from PPTs and write the same thing in exams which is not needed for masters and for such research oriented subjects. This can change and students can be allowed to write answers based on their understanding rather than memorizing the PPTs and copy pasting it to gain marks in exams. 2. Students should be encouraged to pursue more internships and should be given time for it since every job requires 1-2 years of experience.

Alumni Suggestions (BA-HEP 2024 batch)

Probable need to increase the depth, and reduce the breadth of the syllabus in all semesters.

1. There are some over lapping of the topics in history and economics, which makes the papers repetitive and lil boring. 2. History papers of 1st and 2nd year focus much more on economic and political history of the world, especially in context of south america and japan . It would be better if along the idea of economic and political situation of the country we would be also taught myths and local indigenous history. 3. The current curriculum of history is more complementary towards for those who are interested in political science, due to its leaning towards the subject. However, those who doesn't like political science they might find the history paper lil hard to understand.

U&I

Dear Ma'am,

Greetings from U&I!

We wanted to extend our heartfelt thanks to Christ University for the opportunity to collaborate with you last year. The college connect initiative was a wonderful success, and we're grateful for your support in helping 90 students sign up to volunteer with U&I. Their contribution has made a meaningful difference in our communities.

We've attached a short report highlighting the impact of this partnership, and the no. of hours of volunteering.

We would love to explore a similar collaboration this year as well, and continue building on the momentum we've created together. Please let us know a convenient time to connect and take this forward.

Thank you once again for your continued support and belief in our work.

Thanks & Regards,

Dear Madhumati,

Thank you for reaching out.

We have had the privilege of many students from your esteemed university interning with us and also having been employed with us as intelligence analysts. It will be an honour and pleasure to guide the students towards this field. Please let me know tentative dates in November end or December first half.

Warm Regards,

Dear Madhumati,

We recently had the opportunity to meet with the Chief Security Officer of AXA Group Business Services, who shared his keen interest in onboarding students as apprentices. This initiative aims to provide students with valuable industrial experience alongside their academic programs.

Recognizing the rigorous curriculum and the strong foundation of knowledge demonstrated by the students of Christ University- Department of International Studies, Political Science and History, we recommended your institution as an ideal partner for this collaboration.

As suggested by you on call this morning, we can pitch the engagement of 1. Matriculated students, 2. Fresh postgraduates. As a next step, we will facilitate a connection between you and the AXA team to explore this further and finalize the approach.

Greatly appreciate your quick response and support in the matter.

Regards,

Aishwarya Nagar
