---------	--

Social Work at Christ University. Dr Chukkali holds both an MA and a PhD, and her academic contributions span a wide range of impact.

Over the course of her career, she has authored more than 25 journal articles and led 14 major research projects. Her scholarly work covers diverse areas, including environmental psychology, interventions for psychological challenges, and the social relationships of young adults. In addition to her own research, she has mentored numerous MPhil and PhD scholars, guiding the next generation of researchers.

Dr Chukkali's engagement with the academic community extends beyond publications. She has participated in over 55 conferences and has been invited to speak at respected institutions such as St. Columba's School, St. Joseph's Law College, the Employees' State Insurance Corporation, and the Times Foundation. Notably, eight of her research papers focus on education. One particularly compelling study involved designing a curriculum to support the well-being of children whose parents are incarcerated.
