EVENT SUMMARY	The Psychology Association proudly organized an engaging Street Play Competition themed "Saudade – A Nostalgic Longing." This event blended creative expression with emotional depth, offering students a platform to showcase their performance and storytelling talents. A total of 11 teams from both undergraduate and postgraduate programs enthusiastically participated in the competition. Each group delivered powerful narratives that reflected the profound human yearning for what once was a lost person, moment, feeling, or era. Following a series of thought-provoking and emotionally resonant performances, the event

LAUNCH OF “UNMUTE”- A New Student-Led Initiative

concluded with a thorough evaluation by our esteemed panel of judges, Dr. Biju Gopal and Mr. Mohammad Arif, renowned for their expertise and profound understanding of human expression and social narratives, both judges provided insightful feedback, emphasizing the creativity, emotional depth, and originality of each team's performance. The evaluation focuses on the creativity, emotional depth, and originality of each team's performance.

Following their deliberation, the winners were announced amidst great anticipation and excitement:

🏆 First Place: Awarded to 1MPHR for their captivating performance and stage presence, which impressed both the judges and the audience.

🥈 Second Place: Earned by 1BAPENG

🥉 Third Place: Secured by 1MPCPO & MHW

Each team received a thunderous round of applause from their peers, faculty, and audience members, recognizing their talent, hard work, and ability to authentically bring the theme of Saudade to life. Our esteemed Dean, Dr. Surekha Chukkali, graciously conducted the prize distribution, adding special significance to the celebration. Smiles, cheers, and a sense of pride filled the air as the winners posed for a photo session, capturing memories that would be cherished for years to come.

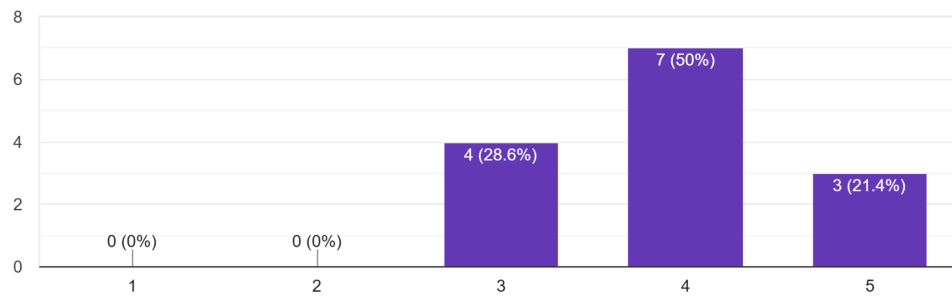

As the event came to a close, the Psychology Association took the opportunity to announce an exciting new initiative titled 'Unmute'. Unmute has envisioned an online open forum as a safe and inclusive space where students can express, engage, and exchange their views on contemporary social, psychological, cultural, and global issues. In a world where opinions are often silenced or overlooked, Unmute believes that every voice matters. Whether mental health, social justice, technology and identity, or emerging cultural shifts, Unmute aims to be a dialogue-driven platform that encourages empathy, critical thinking, and respectful discourse.

	The platform will be moderated to ensure it remains constructive, student-friendly, and empowering for all participants. By launching Unmute, the Psychology Association reinforces its dedication to academic and creative pursuits and fostering a community where students feel heard, seen, and valued. Stay tuned for more updates on participating, contributing, and making your voice count—because it's time to Unmute.
SPECIAL HIGHLIGHTS	● Two esteemed panellists judged the event, including one faculty member from the Department of Psychology and one external evaluator, ensuring fair and holistic assessment. ● Faculty members across specializations were present to support and cheer on the students, fostering an inclusive and enthusiastic atmosphere. ● The audience comprised students from various departments, who showed incredible encouragement for their peers and added to the vibrant energy of the venue. ● The Basketball Court near Just Bake, served as a perfect open space for the street performances, drawing in a large and engaged crowd. ● The participants displayed tremendous enthusiasm and genuine talent in their expression and art.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	The Psychology Association extends heartfelt gratitude to all participating teams, the judges, faculty supporters, volunteers, and audience members who made this event a grand success. The Association also thanks the logistical team and volunteers who ensured the seamless execution of the event.

What are some positives takeaways from the event?: 14 responses

It was a fun event allowing students to be more familiar with their classmates too

Feeling of cohesion with my class

It was amazing to see different classes presenting their take on Saudade

Good event

Every play show a story that was very relatable. The first bapeng play was the best

Team bonding and opening up

Learnt streetplay and emotions

This was my first ever streetplay that I got to perform with my class friends, it was such an enjoyable experience and I also got the chance to act and showcase my skills. This built confidence in me to excel myself in public.

Teamwork

Was engaging and a new experience for me

The continuous support and engagement in class helped me to build new network in different psychology programmes.

Volunteers worked very hard

Enthusiasm, Active Participation, Class unity

What are some aspects you feel we could work on?

Being more audible in open venues

Location

Mic

More participation

These kind of events should be made compulsory for the whole class as this time, only half of our class participated which also impacted our performance somewhat. And in some groups the whole class took part and gave a good performance.

Organisation

More encouragement for classes to participate

Timings

No mention of the time limit, and No clarity on the basis of judgement and marks

Most people were very happy with the event organisation, the performances displayed, and the skills it taught them about teamwork and class cohesiveness. The event was very well-received by the crowd, and impacted their classroom learning, experiences, and engagement with such events for the better. A few points to work on are to enhance class participation and involvement, along with making the judging criteria more clear. Overall, the event was a major success.
